

Queer+Trans Concerns Around Democracy, Money & Politics

Saturday, April 22

3:00-4:30

The Community Church of Boston
565 Boylston Street

Many of our current laws do not reflect the wants or needs of the queer and trans community.

The private prison industry impacts our immigration and criminal justice system; pro-trans legislation is impacted by a cis-majority donor class; and money in politics even impacts representation in local government and in Congress for communities of color and the LGBTQ community.

Join a conversation with activists in the queer and trans community to talk about how money in politics hurts their ability to have meaningful conversations without the unequal influence of wealth.

Panelists include Jason Lydon, Black and Pink; Mason Dunn, Mass Trans Political Coalition; Allie Boldt, Demos; and Jasmine Gomez, Free Speech For People.

This event is sponsored by Free Speech For People and co-sponsored by Black and Pink, Mass Trans Political Coalition (MTPC), American Promise, Demos, The Community Church of Boston, Charles Hamilton Houston Institute for Race and Justice, GLBTQ Legal Advocates & Defenders - GLAD, and the National Lawyers Guild – Massachusetts Chapter.
