Re: Freedom of Information Act Request for Records Related to Possible Military Parade in Washington, D.C.

Dear Information Officer:

I am writing to request information pursuant to D.C. Law § 2-531, the Freedom of Information Act. According to a February 6, 2018 report in the Washington Post, on or about January 18, 2018 President Trump directed the Department of Defense to plan a military parade in Washington, D.C.¹ The article reports that Mr. Trump had previously expressed a desire for such a parade in more abstract terms, but that it has now moved to a more concrete preparation stage. According to the article, planning now includes consideration of potential parade routes (with the president's preferred option reportedly passing directly past the Trump International Hotel), particular hardware (including but not limited to Abrams tanks), costs, and dates. According to the article, Defense Department spokesman Thomas Crosson confirmed the report.²
